Gods will what meanes this? knowſt thou not
That we haue fined theſe bones of ours for ranſome?
Her. I come great King for charitable fauour,
To ſort our Nobles from our common men,
We may haue leaue to bury all our dead,
Which in the fielde lye ſpoiled and troden on.
Kin. I tell thee truly Herald,
I do not know whether the day be ours or no:
For yet a many of your French do keepe the field.
Her. The day is yours.
Kin. Praiſed be God therefore:
What Caſtle call you that?
Her. We call it Agincourt.
Kin. Then call we this the fielde of Agincourt,
Fought on the day of Criſpin, Criſpianus.
Flew. Your Grandfather of famous memory,
If your Grace be remembred,
Is do good ſeruice in France.
King. Tis true Flewellen.
Flew. Your Maieſty ſayes very true.
And it pleaſe your Maieſty,
The Welſhmen there was do good ſeruice,
In a Garden where Leekes did grow,
And I thinke your Maieſty will take no ſcorne,
To weare a Leeke in your cap vpon S. Dauies day.
King. No Flewellen, for I am Welſh as well as you.
Flew. All the water in Wye will not waſh your welch
Blood out of you. God keepe it, and preſerue it,
To his graces will and pleaſure.
King. Thankes good Countrey-man.
Flew. By Ieſu I am your Maieſties Countryman, (man:
I care not who kno it, ſo long as your maieſty is an honeſt
King. God keepe me ſo. Our Herald go with him,
And bring vs the number of the ſcattered French,

Exit Heralds.

Call

Call yonder ſouldier hither.
Flew. You fellow, come to the King.
Kin. Fellow, why doſt thou weare that gloue in thy hat?
Soul. And pleaſe your maieſty, tis a raſcalles that ſwaggard with me the other day: and he hath one of mine, the which if euer I ſee, I haue ſworne to ſtrike him: ſo hath he the like to mee.
Kin. How thinke you Flewellen, is it lawfull to keep his Oath?
Fl. And it pleaſe your Maieſty tis lawful to keep his vow If he be periur'd once, he is as arrant a beggarly knaue, as treads vpon too blacke ſhoocs.
King. His enemy may be a Gentleman of worth.
Flew. And if he be as good a Gentleman as Lucifer and Belzebub, and the diuell himſelfe,
Tis meete he keepe his vow.
King. Well ſirrha keepe your word,
Vnder what Captaine ſerueſt thou?
Soul. Vnder Captaine Gower.
Flew. Captaine Gower is a good Captaine,
And hath good litterature in the warres.
Kin. Go call him hither.
Soul. I will my Lord.

Exit ſouldier.

Kin. Captaine Flewellen, when Alanſon and I
Were downe together, I tooke this gloue from's helmet,
Heere Flewellen weare it.
If any challenge it, he is a friend of Alonſons,
And an enemy to me.
Flew. Your Maieſty doth me as great a fauour,
As can be deſired in the hearts of his ſubiects.
I would ſee that man now that wold challenge this gloue
And it pleaſe God of his grace I would but ſee him,
That is all.
King. Flewellen knowſt thou Captaine Gower?
Flew. Captaine Gower is my friend

 And
